UT Tyler Gives Shelter to Hurricane Gustav evacuees

After hurricane Gustav ravaged Beaumont Texas in 2008, UT Tyler students, faculty, staff and volunteers worked countless hours preparing for evacuees. The organizational structure of the shelter combined lessons from hurricanes Katrina and Rita and several years of planning. A campus wide email asking for volunteers was issued and more than 135 students, faculty, and staff answered. They gained hours of experience dealing with special needs patients sheltered in the Herrington Patriot Center. Anne Viviano, who served as charged nurse for the shelter, stated that UT Tyler had been great with everything, especially the supplies they needed. Della Edwards, a Beaumont evacuee, said she was impressed by the care she and others had received. Patriot Talon, September 8, 2008.

Fall Enrollment Increased five percent; Highest Ever at the Time.

It was the highest semester enrollment in the history of the university at the time, according to Admissions Director Martha Wheat.
