INTERCOM

THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT TYLER

"A Mile in My Shoes," a disability awareness program and panel discussion, will be presented Wednesday, March 31 by the UT Tyler Division of Nursing and the Association of Students with Disabilities.

Disability program to be presented

The program is designed to help education, psychology and nursing students — as future teachers, counselors and health care professionals — work with people with disabilities more effectively in their careers, as well as to increase the community's understanding of attitudes, perceptions and challenges related to disabilities.

The panel, scheduled 1 - 2 p.m. in UC 118, will feature a discussion by students who have spent the morning in a wheelchair, blindfolded, using crutches or in some other way simulating a disability. Debbie Mahoney, senior lecturer in nursing, will serve as moderator.

Admission is free; however, reservations are requested due to limited seating. For more information call ext. 7170. ★
